LEAD THE LIFE OF A HUNTSMAN

Fred Bartlett Contracted Heavy Cold While Living in Log Hut This Winter.

HAD OCCUPATION OF TRAPPER

Was Brought Home Last Saturday by His Father and Died Early This Morning.

Fred Bartlett, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Watt Bartlett, died at the home of his parents this morning at one o'clock at the age of eighteen years. The attending physician pronounced the death due to acute dilation of the heart, complicated by pulmonary tuberculosis.

Young Bartlett made hunting and trapping his occupation. For three months this winter he lived in a small hut near the Norris ford, east of the city, where he spent his time killing game and trapping animals. During his stay there he contracted a heavy cold, which brought on his last sickness that resulted in his death. He came back home this spring for a short time and after the physician examined him he advised him to return to his old life and live in the fresh air as much as possible.

He went back to his occupation, this time living in a tent. But he gradually grew worse and declined in health until he was scarcely able to attend to his duties. Last Saturday his father hearing that he was very ill went up after him and brought him home. The physician, when he saw the young man, entertained no hope for his recovery. He gradually grew weaker until the end came early this morning.

The deceased is survived by his parents, one sister, Rhoda, one brother Charles, and one half-sister, Mrs. Elmer Pea. No funeral arrangements have been made, but the services will probably be held Saturday.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Perhaps you thought the hat your wife brought home was a trifle large, but how would you like to have a Merry Widow in the house the top of which would reach to the ceiling? Over in Cleveland, Ohio, a sample Merry Widow hat has been built which would shelter a whole harum of merry widows. The crown is twelve feet in diameter. The circumference is twenty-five feet. Two hundred and fifty yards of braid were required to make the hat, as well as 1000 yards of thread, eight quarts of glue and four yards of ribbon. It took four girls an entire day to make the hat.

YOU CRUEL THING!

Connersville News: A young parrot, perched on a printer's case, near the linotype machine in the Rushville Republican office, helps to make "fillin'" for that paper. It has been taught to say, "Rushville is Going to Boom," and whenever the operator is short of "copy" he makes a line of the parrot's words. Connersville is booming now, and has been right along, but in its own quiet way. "Watch Us Spread!"

Mendenhall is at the head of the supply department and he fully expects the shipment in a day or two.

LARGE CROWDS ATTENDED

Dr. W. L. Straughan Leads the Amateurs—Charles Brooks High Local Shot.

Good scores marked the second day's shoot in the second annual registered tournament of the Rushville Gun and Country club. The weather was not so favorable for the events today as it was yesterday, but a much larger crowd was attracted to the grounds by the crack of the gun. A large number of women witnessed the shooting this afternoon. Many people were drawn to the Jersey Isle stock farm sale yesterday, who attended the tournament at the gun club grounds today.

C. A. Young, a professional, made the best score of the day, breaking 194 birds out of a possible 200. Young was tied with LeCompte yesterday for high score and today LeCompte was a close second with 190 out of 200. Ward Burton and Fred LeNoir were the next highest among the list of professionals.

Dr. W. L. Straughan of Waveland, who was high amateur yesterday, again lead them today with 182 out of 200 pigeons. S. K. Jewett and T. H. Perry of Indianapolis and Charles Brooks of this city were all tied for second honors with 180 out of a possible 200 birds.

The scores at the first day's shoot of the second annual registered tournament of the Rushville Gun and Country club were up to the average.

In the list of professionals, C. O. LeCompte and C. A. Young tied for first honors, each making 188 out of a possible 200 birds. Among the amateurs, Dr. W. L. Straughan of Waveland was first with 188 out of 200 birds, and W. N. Wise of Noblesville and Mayor Ed Voris of Crawfordville were tied for second honors with 186. Scores:

DAYTON WAS ALL WRIGHT TODAY

Cousins From Here Attend a Two Days' Celebration in the Ohio City.

HISTORIC PAGEANT IS GIVEN

Medals Will be Awarded Tomorrow by the State and City by Governor Harmon.

Mrs. Cora Dillon and Miss Grace Frazier of this county, first cousins of the famous Wright brothers, went to Dayton today to attend the big Wright celebration. They will be guests at the home of their uncle, Bishop Milton Wright, father to the world famed aeroplanists.

A dispatch from Dayton today tells the following story of the celebration:

Somebody at dawn today yelled "Hooray for little old Dayton!" which, coupled with the names of Wilbur and Orville Wright, immediately became the slogan of Dayton's two days' celebration in honor of the world's champion aviators. By the booming of cannon, shrieking of whistles and ringing of bells the citizens of Dayton made it known that whatever claim the rulers of Europe or the government at Washington had upon the Wright brothers, theirs is that of fellow-townpeople.

The ceremonies began at nine a. m. At that hour the streets were thronged with people. For ten minutes every whistle, bell and tin horn in town joined in an outburst of hilarious sound. From many triumphant arches swung outstretched aeroplanes and on the tops of tall buildings aircrafts were made to appear ready for flight. On one banner appeared the words, "America is the home of aerial navigation, and Dayton is the home of the world's first aerial navigators."

Other inscriptions were "They're the right Mr. Wrights, all right," and "The Wrights that made Dayton famous." Almost every Daytonian knew the Wrights from early childhood. "Why," said one enthusiast, "I knew Wilbur when a kid. We used to go swimming in the Miami river."

Up to the hour of the opening ceremony Wilbur and Orville, hammering away in their workshop, were still busy with the details of packing up parts of an aeroplane for shipment to Washington. Miss Katherine Wright, a sister; Bishop Milton Wright, the father, and Lorin and Reuchlin, other brothers, had already entered the carriage when Wilbur and Orville emerged from their home. Escorted by State militia, troops of regulars and a brass band, the Wrights were driven to a platform, where was given a pageant representing events from the founding of Dayton 113 years ago down to the arrival of the Wright brothers.

Conrad J. Schmidt, president of the local school board, thanked the aviators for the fame they had brought the city. Other speeches were made telling how on what is known as "Huffman's prairie," eight miles east of Dayton, the Wrights in 1905 made the record-breaking flight which first brought upon them the attention of the world; how the father of the boys years ago had given them a helicoptere to play with and how it was really by this toy that Wilbur and Orville were stirred to the early experiments from which the modern aeroplane was evolved.

The chief event of the celebration will occur tomorrow, when medals will be presented by the nation, the State of Ohio and the city. Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio will present the State medals. Those authorized by congress will be presented by General James Allen, signal officer, who has been designated by Secretary of War Dickinson for the purpose.

After completing their flights for the government, which are to begin at Washington next week, both the Wrights probably in August, will sail for Germany to take up their work there.

INSTRUCTED TO CARE FOR INJURED MAN

Local Masons Send Orders by Conductor Donnegan to See That Rutledge Has All Attention.

RECOVERING FROM INJURIES

Wednesday when Conductor Donnegan brought his train in from Rushville he stated that he had been instructed to spare no expense in providing care and attention for John Rutledge, who was injured Monday morning in the Pennsylvania yards, says the New Castle Courier. Rutledge is a member of the Masonic orders at Rushville and is very highly regarded. His condition is improving and he thinks he will be able to be out in a short time. Last night he was sitting up and the indications are that there will be no serious complications.

Over a hundred friends called at the Gallivan home Tuesday night to inquire about the injured man.

THOUGHT THIS CITY WAS A KING BEE

Shooter Expressed His Astonishment and Praised the Old Town to the Skies.

BULL STORY STAGGERED HIM

A shooter here for the tournament last night remarked: "This is surely a lively little place. Most enthusiastic gun club boys I ever met. Here's a band concert right handle up against a fine court house; five cent theaters doing the biggest business I ever saw, and to top it all off I heard they sold a bull here today for eleven thousand dollars."

He evidently thought it was an ordinary occurrence here to sell a bull for $11,000. He didn't see any demonstration like leading Derry's Golden Jolly around the court house square, or anything of the sort, and thought we were "taking it" rather coolly.

SHIPPING BACK FIXTURES

Greenfield Saloon Men Going Out of Business.

Some of the saloon men who were caused to discontinue their business because of the local option, are dismantling their former places of business and shipping the bars and other fixtures to the Terre Haute Brewing Company, says the Greenfield Tribune. Some of the proprietors owned their own fixtures. There is but very little being said now about the closing of the saloons that it is accomplished as new things come up daily to occupy the minds of the people.

WILL NOT BE A JOINT.

Connersville Examiner: Rushville and Connersville people may organize a joint country club, but don't let any one get the idea that the club will be a joint.

CRIPPLED THE REST OF HIS LIFE

Bert Elder, Who Was Run Over By an I. & C. Car, Always Been Unfortunate.

ACCIDENT IS A MYSTERY

It is Said Elder Had Been Drinking—Was Crippled Early in Life by a Fall.

Bert Elder, a former Manilla boy, who was seriously injured last Saturday night being struck by an I. & C. car at Brandon Station, suffers much pain from his injuries. His left foot was mangled to such a degree that it will have to be amputated.

Since boyhood Elder has been a cripple and the star of ill luck has always hovered over him.

Early in life he fell out of a tree and for a time his life was despaired of. The accident left him a cripple, his right limb being much shorter than the left.

In the accident Saturday night in which he injured his left limb places him in an unfortunate position as the only means he had for locomotion will now be taken away from him.

The accident is shrouded in mystery and no one has been made familiar with how it occurred. It is said that Elder had been drinking Saturday and laid down on the I. & C. track when a night car struck him. He was taken to Arlington, where Dr. Shanek attended him.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

City Clerk Grant Gregg had an enemy. Now he has enemies. The other night the enemy did steal into his back yard at a very late hour and left a sack full of something there. Gregg's wife was the first to note its presence and had her husband go after it, for it had such a mysterious look about it. He brought the sack into the house and opened it. Lo and behold! It was filled with the cutest and cunningest kittens you ever laid or feasted a pair of eyes upon. He has been the victim of a bold and plotting villain. But hear it all! What did Grant do but bundle the little chafers up and tote them across the school house yard. With the mantle of darkness about him he did purposely, feloniously and with malice aforethought enter the yard of a friend's home and there turned the frolicy felines loose. They scattered all over the neighborhood. All are aware of who did the dirty work and Gregg had an enemy, now he has enemies—everybody is sore at him.

GRAY HAIRS BANISHED

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color. The objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of it souring quickly. The objection has been overcome, and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair, but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow. It is sold by all druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price. For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

Eczema is Now Curable.

Zemo, a clean liquid for external use, stops itching instantly and permanently cures eczema and every form of itching skin or scalp disease. F. E. Wolcott the druggist, says he has been shown positive proof of many remarkable cures made by Zemo and that he endorses and recommends it and believes Zemo will do all that is claimed for it. A Specialist Who Is at Home in Secret Conference, in Committee Room or on the Floor—Practical, but No Theorist.

WHAT is happening to the tariff bill? Answer—Aldrich is happening to it, and that is plenty. If Payne should now meet his pet child he would greet it as a stranger, as much of a stranger as Payne himself seemed to his friends after he had lost his whiskers. How has Aldrich worked this transformation? He has the votes. If he has not enough in his own party he reaches over and picks off a few Democrats. How does he get these votes? Ask somebody on the inside, and he probably won't tell you. I don't know how he gets them, but he gets them. Maybe he uses bait or a chloroform bottle or a club or a fish net, or maybe he is Svengali in disguise and a majority of the other senators are Trilbys. Sherlock Holmes might tell how he does it, but nobody else seems to know, or if anybody does know he does not want to commit himself and keeps as quiet about it as—well, as quiet as Aldrich. Aldrich is so still that the interstellar silence would sound like a boiler factory compared to him.

It is rather a striking spectacle that confronts the American people in this year of our Lord 1909—striking and edifying! Here is one man apparently stronger than the whole United States. Last year a great national convention was held and in its platform adopted a plank favoring tariff revision, which everybody supposed would be revision downward. The other party was for even a stronger tatorial; not from his position in the party, for outside of being "boss of the senate" he has no great standing as a party leader. I never heard of his going on the stump in a national campaign nor indeed of his having had any part in the canvass at all. What, then, is the source of his mysterious control of the senate and of all fiscal legislation? What is behind this man, who is repeatedly charged with being the real ruler of the United States? Is it John D. Rockefeller, with whom he is connected by marriage? Well, the richest man in the world might help some, but Aldrich bossed the senate before his daughter wedded Rockefeller's son. These are but incidents. They do not explain him.

Many Years in the Senate.

And now, having found the things that do not make Aldrich powerful, perhaps we can determine some of the things that do. One is that he has been in the senate twenty-eight years. In a general way seniority regulates promotion in congress, as in the army and navy, and it has produced the same unsatisfactory results in all three. The senseless system is now being abrogated in the military, but it still obtains in congress. Its iron hand on the upper house was recently pictured by Senator Beveridge in the Saturday Evening Post. By mere weight of age in the service Aldrich has graduated to the head of the finance and steering committees.

Another strength of the Rhode Island senator is that he is a specialist. nome in the secret conference, in the committee room or on the floor. He is plausible and often convincing in debate. But he shows to best advantage when marshaling his votes on roll call.

Roughly stated, these constitute the secrets of Senator Aldrich's power—length of service, specializing on tariff and finance, being the alleged spokesman of certain powerful business groups and mastery of legislative methods. I hope I have stated the case fairly. I have tried to keep out my own personal bias, but we are seemingly powerless anyway, and it does no good to call names.

A year ago it was said that Mr. Aldrich would retire at the end of his present term, which closes on March 4, 1911. The ostensible reason given was his age, which will then be seventy. The real reason was said to be that he saw a growing revolt against his leadership and would retire before overthrown. Throughout the extra session that revolt has been strongly in evidence, but not strongly enough materially to affect results. But with the headway that it has gained in his own party there is no predicting what size it may assume in the elections two years hence. The significant remark in Secretary MacVeagh's Chicago speech to the effect that the president as leader of his party might find it necessary to "change its majority and control" was generally understood to refer to Aldrich and others of his kidney, so that if he does step aside it will only be out of the path of the storm. But all of that will be too late to affect this tariff bill. On that it is now fairly certain that the Rhode Island senator will have his way. Nor is it probable that the president will veto it, however deeply he may feel on the subject. The general view is that he will get the best he can and let it go at that, believing that to prolong the agitation at this time would but disturb business. That will by no means end the matter, however. The wounds left in this fight will be long in healing, and that talk of changing the "majority and control" may prove no idle threat.

Sturdy Band of Fighters.

We can all thank Senator Aldrich for one thing. His course has brought into being one of the sturdiest little bands of fighters that ever raised the banner of revolt in what they believed a righteous cause. Whatever may be our individual opinions of the tariff itself, there can be nothing but admiration for that dozen of young Republicans, including La Follette, Cummins, Dooliver, Beveridge, Burkett, Brown, Bristow, Clapp, Nelson, Borah and others, who have risked their political all in a battle to keep faith as they saw it. The country may find it worth looking at these two pictures—on the one hand Aldrich, intrenched by years, wealth and votes, and on the other these young men daring to make a losing fight for principle—a losing fight now, but is it not written that in the end it will win?

Very Simple Liver.

What manner of man is he? One of the smooth, diplomatic and secret sort. There is little to tell of his life, less of his habits. He does not drink or smoke, lives in the simplest manner, is white of mustache and gray of hair, ruddy of face, muscular, of medium height, and his most notable feature is a pair of piercing eyes. He began life as a grocery clerk, got into the Providence council, next into the assembly, then into congress and finally into the senate. That is the whole of the story, so far as the public knows, though there are whispers of Aldrich having controlled the public utilities of Rhode Island, from which he made millions. Henry Beech Needham tells a story in this connection of how Marsden J. Perry, Aldrich's partner in the traction business, once got an option on a lot of horse car lines in Providence and peddled it around New York, but without success. Then he bethought himself that Senator Aldrich's name might prove an "open sesame" to certain gentlemen interested in sugar.

"In twenty-four hours the matter was closed, and in forty-eight hours we had four millions to check against," said the laconic Perry.

It has often been said that Mr. Aldrich has no sense of humor. Yet I have found two fairly good stories credited to him. Here is one of them:

When abroad several years ago he visited a typical London music hall. A one act melodrama, called "The British Heart of Oak," was played by seven men and a young woman. The time of the melodrama was laid in the early years of the last century, and four of the players represented American soldiers.

These American soldiers were a ragged, scarecrow lot, for it was the idea of the melodrama to ridicule the American army. As the men came on the stage they were put through an examination.

"What was your business before you became a soldier?" they would be asked, and to this question one answered that he had been a tailor, another that he had been a cobbler, a third that he had been a cook, and so on.

The audience laughed uproariously at an army composed of men from such sedentary and confining trades, but in the midst of the laughter Senator Aldrich's American heart was rejoiced to hear a voice shout from the gallery:

"Hurrah! Great Britain licked by tailors, cobblers and cooks! Hurrah!"

GARY TO TAP COAL FIELDS

Steel City Soon to Be Connected by Rail Lins.

AN INEXHAUSTIBLE SUPPLY

With the Completion of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary Line the Great Steel Works Will Be in Direct Communication With the Rich Coal Fields of Indiana and Illinois.—Project Financed by H. W. Seaman, Who Is Also Interested in the Gary and Crown Point Line.

Hammond, Ind., June 17.—The work of constructing the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary, which is an outer belt line which runs from Rockford, Ill., to Moline, and will soon be connected with Gary, has reached the point where its right-of-way crosses the Walsh road, near the Indiana and Illinois state line. This fact is of interest for the reason that it will enable the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary line to tap the coal fields to the south and distribute thousands of carloads of coal to the various cities over its line. This project is being financed by H. W. Seaman of Chicago, who is also interested in the building of an inter-urban line from Gary to Crown Point. When the road is completed it will also connect Gary with the Southern Indiana railroad and its inexhaustible coal fields.

Alleged Horse Thief Feared Companion Would Turn Traitor

Gary, Ind., June 17.—After trailing all day over the sandy waste of Lake county with a horse which they had stolen in Illinois, Charles Calhoun Smith, a colored man sixty years old, shot and badly wounded Joe Schow, forty-eight years old, his alleged partner in crime, with a shotgun and left the man to die in a swamp near Gary, where they had pitched their tent for the night.

Schow, with nearly half the side of his face torn off and with a ghastly wound in his side, crawled a quarter of a mile to an empty cattle shed. Farmers passing by the shed heard the man crying in agony and gave him assistance. When they heard the man's story a man hunt was begun.

Smith, evidently believing that his victim was dead, drove in the stolen rig back to his home in Gary. After placing the horse in the barn he started downtown when he was placed under arrest.

Minister Denied Charges.

Elizabethtown, Ind., June 17.—The investigation held here in relation to the Rev. W. S. Hunt has closed, but the committees refuse to give out any information at this time. Another meeting will be held in Indianapolis Friday afternoon, at which time the testimony will be gone over and a report formulated, which will be kept secret until Monday, June 28, when a meeting of the Indianapolis presbytery will be held in Indianapolis. Rev. Mr. Hunt made a flat denial of all charges unbecoming a minister and a neighbor relative to Belah Remy. He said Belah hugged and kissed him and that she made all the advances.

Brother and Sister Reunited.

Laporte, Ind., June 17.—At the home of John Harger in Noblesville, Ind., he and his sister, Mrs. Jane Gray of Iowa, who had mourned each other as dead for fifty-four years, were reunited. They were separated when children, one going with the father and the other with the mother. Mrs. Gray recently heard a man named Harger was living in Noblesville, and he identified a juvenile photograph of himself which she mailed him.

Dynamite Used in Miners' Feud.

Harrisburg, Ill., June 17.—The house of a Russian coal miner was dynamited and the building was wrecked. For some time past there has been friction between American and foreign miners at Harrisburg and Eldorado, and several attempts have been made to run foreign miners out of that section.

Governor Marshall an LL. D.

Crawfordsville, Ind., June 17.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall honored Wabash college with his attendance at the commencement activities, and in return the college honored the governor by conferring on him the honorary degree of doctor of laws (LL.D.)

Minimum Fine Assessed.

Muncie, Ind., June 17.—The jury that tried Joseph E. Davis, auditor of Delaware county, for malfeasance in public office, found Davis guilty as charged in the indictment and assessed against him the minimum fine, one dollar and costs of suit.

Big Gas Well.

Petersburg, Ind., June 17.—Otten-dorf & Co., of Mt. Carmel, Ill., while drilling on the farm of County Commissioner Jeff English of Monroe township, struck a flow of natural gas that is estimated at 5,000,000 cubic feet per day.

KNOCKED OUT FOR THE THIRD TIME

Illinois Primary Law Again Held Unconstitutional.

Springfield, Ill., June 17.—The supreme court of Illinois has decided that the primary election law was unconstitutional.

This is the third primary law which has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. The law was passed by the forty-fifth general assembly in a special session and was known as the Oglesby bill while it was being considered by the legislature.

He Doubts Law's Validity.

Springfield, Ill., June 16.—Governor Deneen permitted the maximum price school book bill to become a law without his signature. If it is unconstitutional the supreme court can point out the defects. While permitting the bill to become a law, Governor Deneen's message says he concurs in the decision of Attorney General Stead, which holds the bill to be unconstitutional.

WHILE PLAYING ROBBER

This Lad Accidentally Shot and Killed His Companion.

Flora, Ill., June 17.—The mystery in the killing of Raymond Harmon, son of Dr. John Harmon, president of McKendree college, was cleared up by the confession of the boy who shot him. Heinrich Carmichael, fourteen years old, told the coroner's jury that it was he who killed Harmon.

Young Carmichael says that while they returned from a hunting trip he and Harmon began playing "robber." Carmichael pointed the gun at his companion, forgetting it was loaded. He pulled the trigger, shooting his companion in the mouth.

Carmichael told his story to Dr. Harmon and a justice of the peace after the two had taken him to the farm. He was allowed to go free.

Resort to Desperate Methods.

Kansas City, Mo., June 17.—Miss Annie Lee Owen, official stenographer in the police investigation, was slugged while working in her office. Stenographic notes representing testimony of the witnesses in the hearing were stolen by the assailant, who escaped. Miss Owen is in a serious condition.

Vincennes, Ind., June 16.—Reuben Wheat, charged with the murder of his friend and neighbor, George White, May 20, 1908, has been brought to trial in the Knox circuit court, his case having been brought here on a change of venue from Sullivan county.

Bail Allowed For Morse.

New York, June 16.—Charles W. Morse, the banker, who was convicted of violating the national banking laws, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $125,000. The bail bond was signed by twenty wealthy friends of Morse.

CRIME AND ITS CURE

Big Body of Penal Reformers Plan Great Work.

NATIONAL IN ITS SCOPE.

American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology Formed in Chicago. Many Changes in Methods of Dealing With Social Offenders Mapped Out—Crime Journal Proposed.

The entire subject of American criminal jurisprudence and the treatment of criminals is to come under the close study of experts in the next year in a way never before attempted in the United States as a result of the national conference on criminal law and criminology which recently ended its sessions in Chicago.

With the unanimously expressed opinion that there are defects almost too numerous to catalogue in the criminal law and in the handling of criminals in the United States today the experts who were gathered at the conference decided to investigate through subcommittees the topics which were under discussion for two days.

The conference also formed itself into a permanent organization. The name of the body is the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology. It will hold meetings annually hereafter, which will be attended, it is hoped, by jurists, lawyers, doctors, alienists, clergymen, criminologists, prison officials and many others interested in all that pertains to the criminal problem of America.

The entire subject of American criminology is to be brought under the microscope of experts in the expectation that great benefits will result to the public at large. The most advanced nations of Europe, it was declared at the conference, are far in advance of the United States in the handling of criminals and in the administration of criminal law, and it is the avowed intention of the new organization to place the United States on a par with the other first class powers of the world in matters relating to criminology.

Over his own objection Dean John H. Wigmore of the Northwestern University Law school was elected the first president of the institute.

The three sections of the conference reported to the entire assemblage in the afternoon. Their reports covered in general terms the whole realm of criminal law and criminology, showing that in the opinion of those making up the reports there are scores of defects in these matters in the United States today.

Out of the great mass of recommendations submitted to it the conference selected the following subjects as those which are to be studied during the next year by subcommittees, which will report back to the newly formed institute at its next annual meeting:

The complex factors combining to encourage and establish the persistent offender, particularly with reference to hereditary taint and disability.

The influence attaching to the traffic in drugs and intoxicants and the widespread excitement to instability, in turn provocative of crime.

An effective system for recording the physical and moral status and the hereditary and environmental conditions of delinquency.

The evils of imprisonment, particularly those due to the indiscriminate mingling in jails and other institutions of persons of different ages and of varying degrees of delinquency.

The results and most advisable methods of adult probation.

The extension and regulation of the parole system, the indeterminate sentence and the modification and suspension of sentences.

Monetary and other indemnification of persons acquitted of criminal charges. The qualifications and training of members of boards of pardon and boards of parole and the constitution of such boards with one another and with the courts.

The notorious abuses of expert testimony and the possibility of establishing commissions of specialists, which may be drawn upon for impartial expert testimony.

Unification of courts. It was declared that the judicial system should be reorganized so as to bring about unity and simplicity of organization and do away with the burdensome cost of transcripts, bills of exception and writs of error, allowing the appellate tribunal to pass upon and use the same papers and the original evidence and contents used at the trial, and to take further evidence on formal matters or matters not controverted for the purpose of upholding judgments.

Fair and speedy trials.

Impartial but prompt selection of intelligent jurors.

Appeals and reversals.

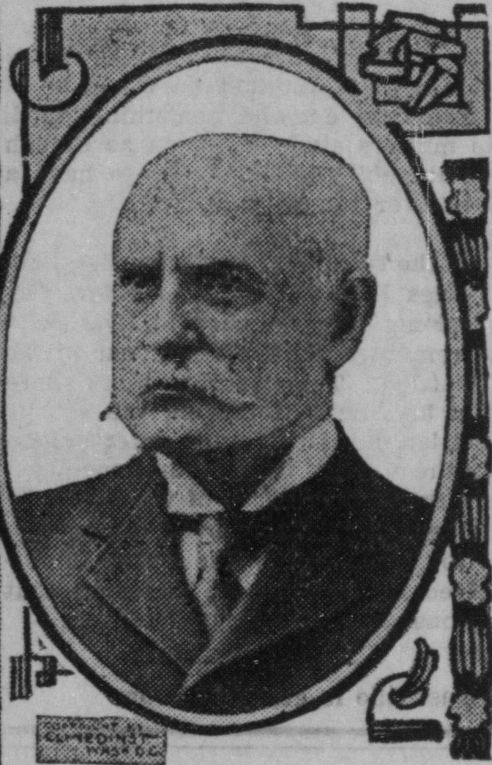

Expert testimony and the best method of trying the issue of insanity.

The simplification and amendment of pleadings.

The subcommittees, in whose hands the work of considering these subjects has been left, will consider the questions in detail and will make comprehensive reports next year.

It is the plan of the institute officials at that time to formulate recommendations to congress as to changes in the federal laws which may be necessary to bring about desired improvements, while recommendations will also probably be made to the various state legislatures as to changes in the state laws. In the opinion of the experts on criminology who composed the conference, one of the most necessary things in the United States today is to bring into closer uniformity the criminal laws of the different states.

It is the intention of the institute to establish a journal of criminology, after the fashion of European institutes of the same character, while the institute also will gather statistics on American criminals and criminology. It was stated during the conference that the United States is far behind the European nations in statistics of this character.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Two Views of Senator

NELSON W. ALDRICH,
Chairman of Senate Committee on Finance.

and more immediate reduction. The campaign was made, and the candidate of the dominant party gave as his keynote this demand for a downward revision, his opponent, of course, going him one better. On that issue the first named candidate was elected and took his seat. Immediately he called a special session of congress to revise the tariff and in his inaugural address said in effect that revision meant reduction. In this stand he had not only the approval of his party as expressed at the polls, but well nigh the unanimous support of the press, resolutions from associations of farmers and business men, practically all organized workmen and at least one great group of manufacturers. The popular branch of congress, in which tariff legislation must originate, brought in a bill that, to some extent at least, revised the schedules downward. And now this one man, this senator from the smallest state in the Union, defies the president of the United States, who is also the head of his own party; defies the other house of congress, defies a large insurgent section of his party in the senate, defies the party platform, defies the press, defies public sentiment and by some means that are a mystery to the whole nation gets enough votes, either from his own party or the other, actually to revise the tariff upward. There has been hardly anything like it in American history.

His Mysterious Power.

Where does he get his power? Not from his eloquence, for, while he is a fair speaker, there are a score of better orators in the senate; not from his popularity, for it is not one of his conspicuous assets; not from his education, for he never had much—started life as clerk in a fish store and outside of finance and the tariff has never been particularly studious; not from his wealth, for, although a millionaire, there are many other millionaires in the body with not a fraction of his power; not from his social qualities, for he cares little for society, has but a slight sense of humor and is inclined to be serious and dic-

He looks after tariff and finance and doesn't bother his head with much else. He has studied these questions till he has them at his fingers' ends. Whatever concerns the bankers, the manufacturers, the railroads, the trusts—in a word, "the interests"—concerns Aldrich. There is no pretense about it. He is quite frank, he stands close to these people, spends much of his time in Wall street, knows what the world of high finance wants, is there as its mouthpiece, is politically independent since Rhode Island will send him to the senate anyway, knows the power behind him and can be defiant, and all the other senators with like affiliations follow their leader. Aldrich is no theorist. He is a "practical" man. His head is crammed with facts, and he marshals them in a plausible way. He has no qualms, no excuses, nothing but the determination to get what he goes after or as much thereof as possible. So far as known, Aldrich has no sentiments except for tariff schedules. For public criticism he cares not a whit. He has no delusions, no sports and no fads. He gravitates between Washington, New York and Rhode Island and permits no fuss to be made about his comings or goings. Perhaps nobody wants to make a fuss, but if any one does he is not encouraged.

Great Marshaler of Votes.

Aldrich knows the legislative game, knows how to appeal to selfish interests of other senators, knows how to put up schedules for trading purposes, knows how to seem to concede or actually to concede at one point in order to preserve a more vital one, how to incorporate legislative jokers, how to use his power as head of the steering committee, which gives him the sentence of life and death over bills and thus makes him able to hold senators in line; how to threaten if necessary, how to wield the party whip, how to bring outside pressure to bear, how to persuade, for he can be most persuasive—in fact, how to use all the wheels within wheels that go to turn the government machine. His business for more than a quarter of a century has been to learn these things. He is at

TO GIVE ORPHANS TRIAL IN HOME

Trial Parentage is New Companion

Idea to Trial Marriage

Scheme.

ADOPT CHILD ON APPROVAL

Is Idea Advanced by National Children's Home Society Now in Session in Milwaukee.

Wilwaukee, Wis., June 17.—Trial parentage is the new companion idea to the trial marriage scheme, according to members of the National Children's Home Society, convened in Milwaukee today with federations from thirty-two States represented. "Send us a baby to try and we will keep it if satisfied," will soon be the common request of patrons of orphan asylums, say the managers of such institutions.

"The adoption of children 'on approval' is not new to us," said Supt. J. P. Dysart of the Children's Home Society of Wisconsin when referred to the system just inaugurated by a New Jersey association. "It is usually three months before would be parents know whether they will be satisfied with a child and in that length of time we are in a position to more fully ascertain if the home is suitable for the child."

Here is the sort of child," according to authorities, which is in most demand: "A light haired girl, between the ages of 6 months to 3 years."

"Persons who want children," said a delegate, "state the desired age, sex and color of hair and eyes, and usually draw the line against some nationalities. Girls are three times as popular as boys, and the light haired baby is in most demand."

"We advise parents to tell the little folks in a nice way that they are not their real fathers and mothers, as soon as the child is old enough to understand. If this is done the children are at once at peace on the matter, but otherwise, the truth usually comes out through some angry playmate and the result is a shock."

INDIANA POLITICS

By Robert G. Tucker.

Indianapolis, June 17.—Representative W. A. Cullop is doing all he can to banish from the minds of southern representatives at Washington the notion that Governor Marshall of Indiana is not a Democrat—an idea that gained considerable headway as the result of the construction put on one of the governor's recent interviews. "I have letters from Indiana," said Mr. Cullop, "which prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that the governor has been grossly misrepresented. It did not require these letters to reassure me as to the governor's simon-pure Democracy, but now that they have come their effect, of course, is to allay all criticism of him emanating from the southern representatives. There is no better Democrat on earth than Governor Marshall. His Democracy is as pure as crystal and as genuine as old gold. In the matter of appointments, what the governor stands for is simply this: He will appoint a Democrat in every instance where he can, under the law. Where the statute says explicitly that a Republican must be appointed to sustain the bipartisan character of state boards, etc., he will appoint a Republican, of course. That is all there is to it. The governor is right and his Democracy cannot be impeached." Mr. Cullop denied that he has any letter from Governor Marshall on the subject, but says the letters he has received come from persons who unquestionably know the governor's attitude and can speak authoritatively in regard to it.

That ex-Governor Winfield T. Durbin aspires to the Republican state chairmanship was asserted today, although he has stated frequently that he is not a candidate and would not have the place. Durbin, however, is regarded as a wily politician, and is said to have ambitions to make another race for governor or for the senate. By becoming state chairman his friends point out that he would be in position to demand something good. As matters stand it seems as though the Republicans are going to have a fight over the reorganization.

At the request of Governor Marshall, Charles F. Woerner, state labor commissioner, has returned to Evansville to remain until the street car strike is settled. The governor fears there may be trouble following the court's decision on a temporary order enjoining the strikers from holding meetings and from doing deeds of violence. The strikers are bitter over the court's action, and unless the order is dissolved or modified, it is feared that serious trouble may follow.

Rushville is going to boom.

He seized him by the collar, dragged him into his yard and held him until he had notified the police, who placed the young man under arrest.

Due to "Delusional Insanity."

Cambridge, Mass., June 17.—Delusional insanity caused John J. Murphy, a pig killer for the North Packing company at Somerville to become violent and attack and kill five and wound three of his fellow workmen on June 5, according to the report of the alienists in the superior court. After hearing the report, Judge Lawton ordered Murphy sent to an insane asylum.

Martin Sheridan's Great Work.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 17.—By throwing the discus 140 feet ½ inch, and making 32 feet ½ inch in a hop, step and jump, Martin Sheridan broke the world's records at Kenywood park.

Edward Hardcastle, age twenty-four, a Dayton (O.) negro, shot and killed his boarding mistress, mortally wounded her four-year-old son and killed himself. The shooting was due to jealousy.

Chicago, June 17.—Wheat prices continued to sag on the Board of Trade Wednesday under the weight of an avalanche of bearish crop advices.

CHAPTER X.
THE HUMILIATION.

INSTANTLY Pike turned with a lithe twist of his lank body and half lifted his hand as if he expected a blow. Then his arm dropped again, and he stood looking at her in calm and interested fashion. As he stared his expression changed to one of mingled tenderness and pride, and when he spoke there was a world of pathos in his voice.

"Why," he said in a low, astonished tone—"why, I knew your pa from the time I was a little boy till he died, and I looked up to him more'n I ever looked up to anybody in my life, but I never thought he'd have a girl like you. He'd be mighty proud if he could see you now."

She turned from him in a smothered rage and then faced him again with cold disapproval in her tone.

"Perhaps it will be as well if we avoid personal allusions," she said resentfully. "This man should have no opportunity for bringing up those vulgar, half forgotten family reminiscences if she could help it. He smiled a trifle wanly."

"I don't just see how that's possible," he answered, and she waved her hand indignantly.

"Will you please sit down?" she said, and Pike made an awkward bow.

"Yes, ma'am," he replied meekly, with the faintest accent on the last word, and obediently took the chair that Horace had vacated so precipitously. She shuddered at the word he had used and glanced nervously at the hat he was holding in his hands.

"Are—are you really my guardian?" she asked at last, with a trace of heat.

"We could have been spared this—this mortification," ed unbelief in her tones. Pike smiled at her.

"Well," he said, "I've got the papers in my grip. I expect that—"

"Oh, I know it!" she interrupted explosively. "It's only that we didn't fancy—we didn't expect—"

She paused, and he went on:

"I expect you thought I'd be considerably older."

"Not only that."

"And I guess you thought I'd neglected you a good deal." There was a touch of remorse in his tone, and he looked idly at the hat he held. "And it did look like it—never coming to see you—but I couldn't hardly manage the time to get away. You see, being trustee of your share of the estate I don't hardly have a fair show at my law practice. But when I got your letter eleven days ago I says to myself: 'Here, Daniel Voorhees Pike, you old shellback, you've just got to take time. John Simpson trusted you with his property, and he's done more—he's trusted you to look out for her, and now she's come to a kind of jumping off place in her life—she's thinking of getting married—so you just pack your gripsack and hike out over there and stand by her.'"

During the last half of his speech

there was a tone of affectionate regard, at which she bridled resentfully.

"I quite fail to understand your point of view," she said frigidly. "Perhaps I had best make it clear to you that I am no longer thinking of getting married."

"Well, Lord 'a' mercy!" ejaculated Pike, leaning back in his chair and smiling at her, but she affected not to notice the lighter tone and went on.

"I mean I have decided upon it. The ceremony is to take place in a fortnight."

Pike brought the front feet of his chair down with a crash.

"Well, I declare!" he cried.

"We shall dispense with all delays," she went on, and Pike regarded her solemnly for a moment.

"Well, I don't know as I could say anything against that. He must be a mighty nice fellow, and you must think a heap of him." He sighed.

"That's the way it should be." He looked at her. "And you're happy?"

WHEEZER OR SNEEZER?
Have You Heard of Hyomei for Catarrh, Asthma and Hay Fever

If you wheeze or sneeze, hawk or spit, snuffle or blow, something is the matter with the membrane of your respiratory tract, and you need Hyomei.

And you need Hyomei because it will cure you of any catarrhal or inflammatory condition that exists.

It isn't a stomach medicine, or spray, or douche, but a verp pleasant, healing, antiseptic balsam, from the eucalyptus forests of Australia. You breathe this balsamic air through a small hard rubber inhaler, and it reaches every nook, corner and crevice of the membrane, and promptly kills the catarrh germs.

F. B. Johnson & Co. will sell you a complete Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit for $1.00 on money back plan.

"The use of Hyomei cured Mr. Cutler of catarrh in 1904. He has strongly endorsed the use of Hyomei in many instances, and we are glad to go on record regarding this marvelous catarrh cure, and endorsing its use."—Mrs. A. Cutler, 201 Post Ave., Battle Creek, Mich., Oct. 12, 1908.

"Distinctly!" said Ethel decisively. Pike looked off over the blue bay, and then his gaze traveled to where Horace had been standing, and with a start he turned to her again, speaking eagerly:

"It ain't that fellow I was talking with, yonder?"

And she voiced an indignant protest. "That was my brother!"

"Lord 'a' mercy!" ejaculated Daniel, and then recovered himself. "But, then, I wouldn't remember him. He couldn't have been more than twelve when you was home last. Of course I'd 'a' known you!"

"How?" demanded Ethel. "You couldn't have seen me since I was a child."

"From your picture, though now I see it ain't so much like you," he answered, and she stepped forward, with astonishment.

"You have a photograph of me?"

"The last time I saw your father alive he gave it to me—to look at."

"And you remembered?"

"Yes, ma'am."

A look of incredulity passed over Ethel's face, and she replied:

"It does not strike me as possible. However, we will dismiss the subject."

"Well, if you'd like to introduce me to your—to your?"

"To my brother?"

"No, ma'am; to your—to the young man."

"To Mr. St. Aubyn?" cried Ethel, recalling a step. "I think it quite unnecessary."

"I'm afraid I can't see it that way. I'll have to have a couple of talks with him, sort of look him over, so to speak. I won't stay around here spoiling your fun any longer than I can help—only just for that and to get a letter I'm expecting from England."

Ethel bit her lip vexatiously.

"I do not see that you need have come at all. We could have been spared this—this mortification."

"You mean I mortify you? Why, I—I can't see how."

"In a hundred ways," she replied, "every way. That common person who is with you—"

"He isn't common. You only think so because he's with me," returned Daniel sadly, looking down.

"Who is he?" demanded Ethel sharply.

"He told me his name, but I can't remember it. I call him 'doc.'"

"It doesn't matter. What does matter is that you needn't have come. You could have written your consent."

"No, ma'am, not without seeing the young man," answered Pike resolutely.

"And you could have arranged the settlement in the same way," went on Ethel unheeding.

"Settlement! You seem to have settled it pretty well without me," returned Pike, smiling.

"You don't understand," said Ethel impatiently. "An alliance of this sort always entails a certain settlement." She paused. "Please listen. If you were at all a man of the world I should not have to explain that in marrying into a noble house I bring my dot, my dowry—"

"Money, you mean?" asked Pike, puzzled.

"Yes, if you choose to put it that way."

"You mean you want to put aside something of your own to buy a lot and start housekeeping?"

"No," she flared. "I mean a settlement upon Mr. St. Aubyn directly."

"You mean you want to give it to him?"

"If that's the only way to make you understand—yes!" she flared.

"How much do you want to give him?" asked Pike thoughtfully.

"A hundred and fifty thousand pounds," said Ethel desperately.

Pike whistled.

"Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars!"

"Precisely that!" said Ethel.

"Well, he has made you care for him," said Daniel. "I guess he must be the prince of the world! He must be a great man. I expect you're right about me not meeting him. I probably wouldn't stack up very high alongside a man that's big enough for you to think so much of as you do him. Why, I'd have to squeeze every bit of property your pa left you."

"Is it your property?" she flared at him.

"I've worked pretty hard to take care of it for you," he answered gently, and instantly she regretted the sharp speech.

"Forgive me," she pleaded. "It was unworthy of me—unworthy of the higher and nobler things that life calls me to live up to—that I shall live up to. The money means nothing to me. I'm not thinking of that. It is a necessary form."

Pike looked at her keenly.

"Have you talked with Mr. St. Aubyn about this settlement—this present you want to make to him?" he asked.

"Not with him."

"I thought not," he went on amusedly. "You'll see. He wouldn't take it if I'd let you give it to him. A fine man like that wants to make his own way. Mighty few men like to have fun poked at them about living on their wives' money."

"Oh, I can't make you understand!" cried Ethel despairingly. "A settlement isn't a gift."

"Then how'd you happen to decide that just a hundred and fifty thousand pounds was what you wanted to give him?" he demanded.

"The police are chasing a bally convict chap under the cliff."

"It was Mr. St. Aubyn's father who fixed the amount," replied Ethel desperately.

"His father! What's he got to do with it?"

"He is the Earl of Hawcastle, the head of the ancient house."

"And he asks you for your property—asks you for it in so many words?"

"Yes, as a settlement."

"And your young man knows it?"

"I tell you, Mr. Pike, I have not discussed it with Mr. St. Aubyn."

Pike laughed.

"I reckon not," he said amusedly.

"Well, sir, do you know what's the first thing Mr. St. Aubyn will do when he hears his father made such a proposition? He'll take the old man out To be Continued."

FORM ONE
HABIT

YOU HAVE probably not yet formed enough "habits." It is likely that you would find the "ad-answering habit" a dividend paying one—and one that would never lure you far away from the best thrift-creed ever devised.

A habit is usually formed through yielding to natural inclination. The ad-answering habit will have to be cultivated—perhaps against present inclination, and through an effort of will.

You are not in the habit of saying "impossible" are you?

"IN GOD WE TRUST" ON CENT

Lincoln Penny Will Bear Inscription and Mark Departure in Coinage.

Director of the Mint Leach in Washington has ordered that "In God We Trust" appear on the new Lincoln cent, the designs and models for which were recently completed by Victor D. Brenner, the New York sculptor and medalist.

Dies of the Lincoln penny had already been made and proofs struck off and submitted to President Taft and other officials. In a letter received recently from the Philadelphia mint Superintendent Landis wrote that it was expected to issue the penny in June, but the other day Mr. Brenner was advised from Washington that the words "In God We Trust" must appear on the coin above the head of Lincoln. The pennies now are not expected to be issued before August, when the dies will be distributed among the United States mints and pennies coined simultaneously at Philadelphia, San Francisco and Denver.

The Lincoln penny marks a departure in American coinage. Coins produced by American mints have never borne the heads of any particular persons, only those depicting Liberty or the American Indian.

PERIL IN BRIGHT HEADLIGHTS

Make Enginemen Color Blind and Interfere With Reading Signals.

The dangers which arise from substituting strong electric headlights for those now used on railroad locomotives was emphasized at Indianapolis in a conference held the other day by the railroad commission of Indiana and reports of virtually all railroads operating in the state.

The conference was called to consider the law recently enacted according to which the commission has power to order locomotives to be equipped with stronger headlights if it finds that such a step is advisable.

The dangers from the stronger type of lamps, it was shown, arise from the fact, supported by a large number of practical tests, that the intensity of the rays, when used on a locomotive, tends to destroy the power of the engineman to distinguish among the colors used in switch lamps and that sitting behind the strong rays for a considerable length of time produces fatigue of the eyes and interferes with the reading of night train orders and signals.

NOTED SPORT'S SOBRIQUET.

How Charles E. Davies Came to Be Called "Parson."

Many years ago Charles E. Davies, one of the best known sporting men in the world, whose sobriquet of "Parson" Davies was conferred upon him by the late William H. Vanderbilt, was managing Dan O'Leary when O'Leary was engaged in walking contests at Madison Square Garden, New York. On one occasion William H. Vanderbilt saw him in the arena and, struck by his appearance, turned to Ed Stokes and asked: "Who is that clean cut, well dressed gentleman?" "He," replied Stokes, "is a prominent Chicago sporting man." "Why," said Vanderbilt, "he looks more like a handsome parson." A score of persons heard the remark, and the name stuck to Davies.

A GREAT DAY FOR DAYTON

Ohio Town Celebrates Dawn of Aerial Age.

WRIGHT BROTHERS HONORED

The Return of the Inventors of the Aeroplane From European Triumphs in the Field of Aviation Is Celebrated by the People of Their Home Town in a Manner to Display the Pride Daytonians Take in the Achievements of the Brothers.—The City Decorated Fittingly For the Occasion.

Dayton, O., June 17.—Almost everything in Dayton today bears some semblance to a flying machine. Vehicles are decorated to look like aeroplanes, airships rest on the tops of high buildings as if poised for flight, and every person wears some token that the era of aerial navigation is at hand. The occasion is the opening of Dayton's two days' celebration in honor of Wilbur and Orville Wright. The city, proud of being the Wright brothers' home, is endeavoring to make the event of national interest.

After a salute of cannon a unique ceremony took place. A character representing Jonathan Dayton, founder of the city, dressed in the costume of a century ago, welcomed the aviators home from their triumphs, and trumpeters perched on tall buildings in various sections formally announced to the world that man-flight is an accomplished fact. Parades of troops through streets spanned by triumphal arches today will be followed tonight by a display on the Miami river. The achievements of the Wright brothers will be pictured in fireworks.

The presentation of medals by the nation, state and city will take place tomorrow. Governor Judson Harmon of Ohio will present the state medal, while that authorized by congress will be presented by Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the army.

Pleaded Guilty in Midst of Trial. Hamilton, O., June 16.—Frank Donely, formerly of Shelbyville, Ind., who was on trial here charged with murder in the first degree for the murder of his wife, suddenly stopped the trial by pleading guilty to murder in the first degree. The jury, under orders of Judge Murphy, then brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, with a recommendation of mercy. This left the court no option but to give Donely a sentence of life imprisonment, without hope of pardon.

Illinois Profits Extensively. Chicago, June 17.—An inheritance tax of $183,844.31 the largest in the history of Illinois on the estate left by the late Nelson Morris, one of the pioneers in the meat packing business, will result from an order in the county court by Judge Rinaker. LIQUOR DEALERS ADVOCATE REFORM

They Declare Against the Low Saloon.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 17.—The report of the protective bureau of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers' association called attention to the need for work along reform lines of stamping out disreputable saloons and dives for the benefit of the legitimate liquor dealers. The convention ratified the platform of last year, which declares that political control of saloons in municipalities is an abuse which must be rectified. The platform calls for the better regulation of saloons.

CRUSHED BY ELEVATOR

Detroit Society Woman Was Held Suspended Four Stories, Then Dropped.

Detroit, Mich., June 17.—Caught between the floor and the top of the gate of a big passenger elevator in the Union Trust building, Mrs. Joseph Tatroe, a well-known society woman of Monroe, hung suspended in the elevator shaft four stories above the ground until the power of the motors, pressing against her limbs, bent the iron work outward and released her. Then the unconscious woman dropped to the floor, narrowly missing a plunge to the bottom of the shaft.

The elevator boy fell in a dead faint. The bones of Mrs. Tatroe's right leg were broken below the knee, her thighs and hips terribly lacerated and her back injured.

Living on Air.

[Dr. Bradbury announces that food in appreciable quantities has been extracted from the air.—News Item.] Their long and faithful labors, scientific men declare, Prove time is coming when no more we'll cultivate the ground. They've analyzed the ether, and they've found that everywhere, Although you may not see them, meals for all mankind abound.

They took some sample ether which they scanned with keenest eye To see what was within it, and imagine their delight! They saw the same resolve itself into a wedge of pie And that a piece of creamy cheese was sitting at its right.

In air that stirred at early morn was evidence of steak, Of eggs and steaming biscuits and a mutton chop well done, While breakfast food came floating in, hot cakes upon its wake, And coffee, milk and sugar in abundance for each one.

Of fruits there were unnumbered sorts from prune to velvet peach And vegetables of every kind to bake or boil or fry. All these for centuries had lurked beyond our human reach. Because we hadn't sense enough to pull them from the sky.

We do not feel quite certain yet about this novel claim. Concerning meals in ether loose we entertain a doubt. But if the scientists are right the next move of the game Should be designed to teach us how to get these cheap meals out. —Henry James in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

TAFT'S MESSAGE MAKES A BIG HIT

The Senate Regards It as of Transcendent Importance.

PUTS TARIFF BILL IN SHADE

Recommendations Concerning the Incorporation of a Provision in the Tariff Bill For the Taxation of Earnings of Corporations, and the Adoption of a Resolution Looking to the Amendment of the Constitution to Permit the Levying of an Income Tax Attract Much Attention in Senate.

Washington, June 17.—After a conference in which five "progressive Republican" senators participated, it was announced that the fight for the adoption of an income tax amendment would be continued in spite of President Taft's recommendation that the matter be referred to the various states.

Washington, June 17.—The message of President Taft recommending the incorporation of a provision in the tariff bill for the taxation of the earnings of corporations and the adoption of a resolution looking to an amendment of the constitution so as to permit the levying of an income tax without interference from the courts is generally regarded by senators as of such transcendent importance as to place in the shade all questions pertaining strictly to the schedules of the tariff bill.

There was a full senate present when the message was read and the document was awarded the most careful attention from all senators. Senator Gore attempted to have the committee instructed to report on the income tax feature of the message by next Friday, when, under general agreement, the income tax question is again to be taken up for consideration. His motion was, however, voted down, and for the first time in many weeks the division was strictly along party lines, all the Republicans voting to lay on the table, while all the Democrats cast their votes against that proposition. During the informal discussion of the reference of the message, Senator Bailey gave notice that he would demand that provision be made for a graduation of any income tax that might be provided for, and intimated that much time would be necessary to get through a provision which did not carry that qualification.

After considerable consideration the senate adopted the finance committee's recommendations regarding the admission of Philippine products, but not until after two or three amendments had been voted down. All of the finance committee's recommendations in the zinc schedule were ultimately agreed to, and the paragraph as amended was finally adjusted. The committee's suggestion of the changes in the silk schedule also were adopted.

WORKMEN PROTEST

Amalgamated Association Opposed to the Open Shop System.

Pittsburg, June 17.—Over ten thousand skilled workmen, members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, who are employed by the American Steel and Tinplate company will quit work on the night of June 30, at which time the "open shop" order of the company becomes effective. Many unskilled workmen will also be affected. The decision to take this action followed a special convention held here.

In the Pittsburg district a majority of the mills of the American Sheet and Tinplate company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, are non-union. The combined plants in which a strike order will be effective total 152 mills capacity in the tin trade and 51 mills in the sheet steel trade. Among the states affected are: Ohio—Martins Ferry (tin), 23 mills; Bridgeport (sheet), 23 mills; Cambridge (sheet), 11 mills; Piqua and Struthers (sheet), 10 mills. West Virginia—Wheeling (tin), 10 mills. Indiana—Elwood, Anderson and Gas City (tin), 43 mills; Muncie (sheet), 7 mills.

Quieting Down in Hawaii.

Honolulu, June 17.—Two thousand strikebreakers, the largest number yet employed, are now at work, and small groups of Japanese are returning to their former places. No reply has been received to the appeal made to Ambassador Takahira by the leaders of the agitation. There has been a small increase in the sale of revolvers, mainly to white residents. Quiet prevails, the situation remaining practically unchanged.

William Fleming Convicted.

South Bend, Ind., June 17.—William Fleming was found guilty of grand larceny in that he engineered a bunko steering game in which W. J. Springborn, service director of Cleveland, lost $10,000, the amount being waged on a fake wrestling match. Fleming was sentenced to the Michigan City prison for from one to fourteen years.

SMALL FORTUNE IN FISH DINNERS

J. B. Doll, Who Made the Apricot Pie

Famous Here, Returns For a Visit.

IS LOCATED IN OSKALOOSA

Dan Kenner, a Former Village Cut-up, Has Gained Fame in the State of Iowa.

J. B. Doll, formerly in the restaurant business in this city for a number of years, now engaged in the same business in Oskaloosa, Iowa, was here today for a few hours transacting business. When J. B. Doll first came to Rushville several years ago, he had less than one thousand dollars, but many good ideas about the restaurant business, and indeed was the pioneer in the radical changes and revolution that marked the development of first class eating houses here. This was almost a "cheese and cracker" center until Doll dropped in and introduced some "polite foodstuffs" for sale. He was the originator of "a first class fish dinner" and from the profits of them soon built a stone front building. He appreciated the fact that farmers seldom get fresh fish and that the ordinary cafe man was wasting time and money setting out chicken and other things the farmers had on their tables frequently. In a few years Doll owned two store rooms, the ones occupied by T. W. Betker and J. A. Craig, besides he left with a bundle of cash that a grey hound could not jump over.

Dan Kenner, who was a popular citizen of this city for a number of years, left for the West with Doll, and has remained there ever since. Doll says that they were not in Oskaloosa six months when Kenner was known to every man, woman and child in the county and had a larger speaking acquaintance than any man in the county. There the children dubbed him "Foxy Grandpa" and everyone knows him by that name. Kenner has been at the head of the Eagles lodge for three years and the big man in Red Men circles there.

Both Doll and Kenner are well pleased with Iowa. But they have a longing in their hearts for dear old Rushville and the Daily Republican is a more welcome visitor in Doll's place than any man who comes in—no matter if he has money in his hand.

For the Hurst & Stein goods. Why it is the best fertilizer on the market. It has from forty to one hundred pounds more phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash to the ton than any other fertilizer sold in the county. I will sell you a brand of 8-4-8 goods for twenty-one ($21.00) dollars a ton. Come and see me before buying. I will be at Innis & Morgan's law office every Saturday with samples and take orders.
